

About John: John D. Exline is currently the acting Forest Supervisor on the Sierra National Forest of the Pacific Southwest Region of the US Forest Service. John has worked for the Forest Service for 32 years in various positions throughout California with the majority of his time spent in the Southern Sierra. He earned his MF in Forest Resource Management from Duke University in 1980. His undergraduate degree is in biology from Lycoming College in north central Pennsylvania. John has been a District Ranger since 2001 for the Hume Lake Ranger District on the Sequoia National Forest and Giant Sequoia National Monument.